Rescue All 21 From Vessel

Fly Close To Jagged Rock Cliff

CAPE NORTH, N. S. (AP)—A Canadian navy helicopter, flying perilously close to a giant rock-faced cliff, maneuvered down to the deck of the wrecked Liberian freighter Kismet II Saturday and snatched her 21 crew members to safety.

The helicopter, carrying four seamen at a time, whisked the men to shore after they and their 2,848-ton ship had been pounded by high winds and blinding snow for nearly 30 hours. The vessel grounded early Friday on the rocky north coast of Cape Breton Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

In making the rescue, the helicopter's pilot, Lt. Cmdr. John Beaman of Montreal, was forced to fly his craft within feet of the 1,000-foot overhanging cliff and work it skillfully down to the deck of the Kismet, perched about 25 feet from the jagged rock face.

The rescued men were taken to the village of Cape St. Lawrence where all were reported in good condition.

The freighter, en route from Philadelphia to Summerside, Prince Edward Island, to pick up a load of potatoes, ground in snow and darkness which prevented the skipper from seeing the Cape North light.

Hitting a rugged reef about 300 feet from shore, the Kismet was battered and shoved to within 25 feet of the cliff by high seas and raging winds. Shore rescuers kept watch throughout the night, making ready to attempt a rescue by stringing life lines from the cliff and taking the men off by breeches buoy.

Winds gusting up to 60 miles eased off this morning and the helicopter went about its dangerous task.

The Kismet was reported resting solidly on her perch, but with several holes in her hull. No announcement was immediately made of what salvage attempts will be undertaken.

CHARGE 1ST HUSBAND TRIED TO BUY WIFE FROM NUMBER TWO

CHICAGO (AP)—A 51-year-old businessman was accused Saturday in a heart balm suit of trying to buy back his divorced wife from her second husband for $10,000.

Louis S. Pierce, 47-year-old husband number two, asked $250,000 damages in the Circuit Court action. Pierce, manager of a plastics firm, contended that his wife, Irene, 34, was dazzled into leaving him after less than five months of marriage.

Named as defendant was William K. Altman, a contractor, who was married to Mrs. Pierce Aug. 14, 1951 until their divorce April 30, 1954.

Pierce wed his divorced bride April 6 this year. He said she left him Sept. 1 after Altman, "a man of considerable wealth," carried out "a systematic plan to effect a breakup" of the marriage.

The suit charged that Altman "lavished expensive gifts and large sums of money" to win back his former wife, and that he offered Pierce $10,000 "to buy Irene back."

Eisenhower, Demo Sen. George Urge Nation Keep Foreign Policy Out Of 1956 Campaign Politics

GEOGRAPHY (AP) — President Eisenhower joined Democratic Sen. George of Georgia Saturday in urging the nation to halt its 1956 campaign battling at the water's edge.

In what amounted to a new plea to keep foreign policy out of politics, the President endorsed the following statement by the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

"We must assure the world that we are capable of having a nonpartisan American foreign policy and that regardless of who wins or loses in 1956 our foreign program will go on substantially as is."

Aurora Sailor Critically Injured, Shipmate Charged

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — A Delaware sailor charged with shooting a shipmate with a shotgun told police Saturday he meant only to scare him.

State governors and municipal mayors on their tour competed in praising Russia's people and government—taking their pattern from the reception India's Prime Minister Nehru himself gave the Russian visitors.

It is obvious that people running into millions are receiving their first political education on Soviet communism under circumstances heavily slanted in favor of the Russians.

But leaders of Nehru's Congress party, when pressed for an answer to what the likely effects of such unrestrained support for the Russians would be, are inclined generally to laugh off the question with the reply that "in India everyone likes a show and forgets it last."

"I might add," Snyder said, "that the President has sought to conduct the nation's foreign policy without partisanship and he has frequently expressed his appreciation for the statesmanlike cooperation given the administration by Sen. George in foreign affairs."

The press assistant remarked that "certainly" his words were spoken with Eisenhower's advance knowledge.

There appeared small chance, however, that foreign policy actually will be kept out of the campaign. Former President Truman said at Seattle only Saturday that the Republicans "put foreign policy into the political arena after Mr. Roosevelt and I had kept it out for years. Now Democrats are in a position to make the most of it and I am sure they will. The present administration's mistakes must be made known now."

Sen. Wiley (Wis.), ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said congressional committees should go into session early in January with military leaders to determine "whether we have taken all necessary steps for our own continental protection."

At Gettysburg, President Eisenhower had no comment on the Russian announcement.

Meanwhile there was doubt as to the exact size of the bomb Moscow announced had been exploded.

The Soviet statement called it "the most powerful of all explosions carried out until now." The context made it unclear whether this meant that it was the most powerful exploded in the Soviet Union, or the most potent set off anywhere. The fact that a preceding sentence spoke of the achievement of Soviet scientists made it possible that the comparison referred merely to bombs set off in Soviet territory.

Sen. Wiley said the Soviet announcement probably was made as part of Russia's efforts to "frighten" the Free World nations into abandoning their collective security arrangements against Communist aggression.

Wiley said "the appropriate committees of the Congress should sit down in executive session with members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff as soon as Congress returns in order to determine whether, as of now, we have taken all necessary steps for our own continental protection, so that there will not be an 'atomic Pearl Harbor.'"

He also called for an intensified effort by the United Nations to determine "just how many of these experimental explosions" the earth's atmosphere can stand without harmful effects on present and future generations.

Motel Shooting In Minnesota Termed Suicide

ORR, Minn. (AP) — The shooting death of a St. Paul architect's wife was termed "almost definitely a suicide" Saturday by R. S. McDermott, St. Louis County deputy sheriff.

The body of Mrs. Myrl Crommett, 38, a bullet through her heart, was found at a motel here Friday morning.

Held at Virginia, Minn., without charge pending a coroner's inquest was Thomas Pierce, 49, Minneapolis union official, who had been on a hunting trip with the woman.

Examination of bullet holes found in the motel room where Mrs. Crommett was shot—McDermott said, indicated the strong likelihood of suicide.

McDermott said it appeared Mrs. Crommett leaned over her 30-30 deer-hunting rifle and pulled the trigger after first firing two shots in a tantrum over Pierce's departure.

Pierce told McDermott Friday that Mrs. Crommett had threatened to take her own life if he left her.

Pierce said they arrived in Orr Tuesday and had several arguments over Pierce's plan to leave for Minneapolis Friday. He said Mrs. Crommett wanted to remain and was told she could take a bus to the Twin Cities if she wanted to.

She said she hopes to use the money from his sale to go to college and study home economics. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Turner, operate a 320-acre grain and livestock farm near Champlain.

Pierce is financial secretary of AFL Building Service Employees Local 26 in Minneapolis.

Soviet Announces H-Bomb Explosion

Foreign Policy Bound To Be '56 Campaign Issue: Sen. Sparkman

Equalled Million Tons TNT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said today foreign policy is bound to become an issue in next year's presidential campaign but he hopes Democrats will keep debate on a "constructive plane."

Sparkman, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said in an interview he doesn't believe the Democrats will stoop to "personalities" as he said the Republicans had in attacks on former Secretary of State Dean Acheson three years ago.

"We are not going to accuse the Republicans of playing footsie with the Communists as they accused us in 1952 and 1954," Sparkman declared.

Sparkman, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, criticized what he called a "lack of consistency" on the part of Secretary of State Dulles in the handling of international affairs.

"He has too many peaks and valleys in his actions," the Alabama senator said. "He blows hot and cold. One day he is optimistic that some kind of agreement can be reached with the Russians and the next day he is totally pessimistic about conditions."

Democratic leaders have made it clear in recent speeches they intend to attack administration international actions, particularly with reference to what some of them have called the "failure" of the foreign ministers conference at Geneva.

Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) in turn charged the Democrats were engaging in "destructive" criticism without offering any alternatives.

Sparkman said he thinks specific alternatives will be offered by Adlai E. Stevenson, thus far the only announced candidate for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination, in forthcoming speeches on international and domestic problems.

As a supporter of Stevenson, Sparkman said he sees no reason why the former Illinois governor can't go along with most of the proposed 13-point Democratic legislative program laid down by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader.

Sparkman served notice he will oppose Senate action on a bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal regulation. The House has passed such legislation.

Sen. Wiley (Wis.), ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said congressional committees should go into session early in January with military leaders to determine "whether we have taken all necessary steps for our own continental protection."

At Gettysburg, President Eisenhower had no comment on the Russian announcement.

Meanwhile there was doubt as to the exact size of the bomb Moscow announced had been exploded.

BENSON GIVEN PERMIT TO PLANT ACORNS, CACTUS ON VENUS

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago industrial designer has given Secretary of Agriculture Benson permission to plant acorns and cactus seeds on the planet, Venus.

A telegram to Benson from James T. Mangan was dispatched. Mangan explained today, not in his engineering capacity, but as "founder and first representative on Earth of the Nation of Celestial Space."

Mangan seized all space in the universe, with the exception of the stars and planets in a bloodless coup in 1948 by proclamation.

"If the department of agriculture could reach Venus with a rocket full of cactus seeds and a few acorns, it is possible vegetable life might be started," Mangan's message to Benson said.

Jersey Delegates At 4-H Meeting At Springfield

JERSEYVILLE—Delegates from Jersey County were among the group of volunteer 4-H workers of the state honored at the 10th Annual Illinois 4-H Leaders Recognition Day program held in Springfield Tuesday.

The festivities were sponsored by the Illinois Extension Service and the Illinois Chain Store Council in cooperation with the county farm and home bureaus. This Recognition Day is planned each year to follow closely after National 4-H Achievement Day so that local club leaders can share in some of the public acclaim at that time given to 4-H club members for their accomplishments.

Attending the program from here were Youth Assistant Gerald Wedekind, William Tracy, Mrs. Edward Hotman and Mrs. Tony Krueger.

Jersey Rural Youth Hears Mans

Al Mans, turkey farmer from Elsah Township, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Jersey County Rural Youth Wednesday evening at the Farm Bureau.

Mans spoke on "How to Carve a Turkey" and gave a demonstration of the procedure. The speaker has a large turkey farm and usually raises between 1400 and 1600 birds a year. Due to illness this year he has not gone into this business extensively.

Tom Locks, who won 3rd place in the State Talk Fest, gave a report of the Rural Youth program at the IAA Convention in Chicago.

Plans were discussed for the second annual Sweetheart Dance on Feb. 11 at the Holy Ghost Parish Hall when a Queen contest will be held.

Tornado Hits Area

The tornado of Friday night which swept into the western Jerseyville area had a path more than the space covered by nine telephones in width.

On Route 16 just west of the Campbell Floral Company, the storm "uprooted" nine poles and hurled them into the field to the north.

The storm deposited a lot of roofing and other debris on the site of the new Jerseyville golf course just east of the Paul Wiener farm.

The storm also deposited a strange waterfowl about the size of a goose at the Paul Thatcher farm. The bird was still at the farm Thursday and has the strange habit for a web footed bird of roosting in trees.

COUNTED OUT

COTTONWOOD, Ariz. (P)—Terry Finnegan of Phoenix was brought before a justice of the peace on a charge of catching over the limit of fish.

Asked to count the fish, he didn't get the right answer, but did get a very red face. He had miscounted by one.

Finnegan is a mathematics teacher.

MORE VOTERS.

FEWER PEOPLE

MANILA (P)—Dinaig is quite a town. The number of registered voters jumped to 16,000 this year from 3,000 in 1941, despite a decrease in population.

A congressman from the district says he knows why and has asked the Commission on Elections to knock out 14,000 names. He says that is the number of fictitious names slipped in by sly politicians, who used "Moslem words for days, trees, monkeys and dogs."

MISSING: ONE LAW

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—For several months of 1955, Montana had no law against drunken driving, a district court ruled. The Legislature repealed a section of law covering drunken driving and the governor signed the repeal into law March 20 although the substituting legislation did not take effect until July 1. Judge Victor H. Fall confirmed the oversight in November by dismissing a charge of driving while intoxicated filed in May.

Homecoming At Virginia H.S. Held Wednesday

VIRGINIA—Wednesday evening Nov. 23 the annual Homecoming of the alumni of the Virginia high school was held with every seat sold before the event.

Two basketball games between Virginia and Balyki high schools preceded the Homecoming program. Virginia was the winner of both games. Cheerleaders for Virginia were Judy Terwilliger, Patsy Ohm, Jeanie Cox, Sally Terwilliger and Bob Shields.

Robert Jokisch acted as master of ceremonies and at the close of the games Marilyn Bell gave the address of welcome. This was followed by a response by George McDonald, president of the alumni association. Loretta Hughes accompanied Bob Shields as he sang "He." The band, directed by Mr. Wolfe, presented a selection "Body and Soul," followed by a solo by George McDonald, "Bless This House."

The name of the Homecoming queen, which had been kept secret since in October when the Homecoming court had been chosen by the students and faculty, was divulged and Janice Downs received the honor. She was chosen from the following members of the court: Patsy Ohm, Linda Rumble, Deanna Smith, Jeanne Fehlhaber, Janice Williams, Judy Terwilliger, Marcus McGeehee, Jeanie Cox, Sally Terwilliger and Janice Downs.

Sylvia Shortridge, last year's queen, crowned the new queen. Miss Shortridge was escorted by Jim Smith, captain of the 1954 basketball team, and Miss Downs was escorted by Richie Thompson. Quinn Hughes was flower girl and Johnny Fogley carried the crown.

After the coronation, the queen and her court went to the Little Gym where they received the congratulations of the many friends who attended the Homecoming.

While they were being congratulated, the big gym was prepared for the dance which followed, with music furnished by the Lou Hahn orchestra.

Janice is a member of the annual staff, of the quintette and secretary-treasurer of the chorus.

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—For several months of 1955, Montana had no law against drunken driving, a district court ruled. The Legislature repealed a section of law covering drunken driving and the governor signed the repeal into law March 20 although the substituting legislation did not take effect until July 1. Judge Victor H. Fall confirmed the oversight in November by dismissing a charge of driving while intoxicated filed in May.

HEIRLOOM — That's what you might call this working TV receiver with a three-inch screen. It's owned by the Howard Squires family in Cleveland, Ohio. They keep it as a reminder of the "old days" of television. Giving you an idea of the smallness of the screen is five-year-old Jerry Squires, who says he has to stand up close to recognize his favorite cowboy heroes.

New York Stock Market

By RADER WINGET
NEW YORK (P)—The stock market kept its recovery rolling this week despite the Thanksgiving holiday, and it stood ready to launch the traditional year-end rally with a little encouragement.

A rally as the year closes is a cherished expectation of stock brokers. They have history on their side. The market in the great majority of cases advances in December.

In the final nine weeks of last year, for instance, the market went up every single week.

This week was the fourth consecutive advance for the market, and the favorable month of December is just around the corner.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week gained $2.30 and closed at $181.30. That is only 20 cents away from the historic high mark reached Sept. 23 on the eve of the bread brought on by news of the President's heart attack. A nudge would bring a new high.

The five most active issues this week on the American Stock Exchange were General Stores up  $\frac{1}{2}$  at 2 on 246,400 shares; Cuban American Oil unchanged at 17 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; National Petroleum up 7-16 at 3; C&C Super unchanged at 13 $\frac{1}{4}$ , and Kaiser Motors up  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 3 $\frac{1}{4}$ .

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were Panhandle Oil up 1 $\frac{1}{4}$  at 14 $\frac{1}{2}$  on 170,900 shares; General Motors off 1 at 49 $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Sperry Rand up 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  at 24 $\frac{1}{4}$ ; General Dynamics up 3 $\frac{1}{2}$  at 60 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; and Allegheny Corp. up  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

WEEK'S GRAIN PRICES WORK LOWER IN SLOW, DREARY DEALINGS

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (P)—In a succession of slow and dreary markets grains worked lower this week, in many cases closing at the bottom prices of the week.

In addition to relatively poor export business, slow commercial demand and the overwhelming weight of too many supplies, the bulls in grains had another worry as the week ended: the prospect of heavy tenders of cash grain on December contracts.

Wheat closed the week 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ -3 $\frac{1}{2}$  lower, corn 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ -13 $\frac{1}{2}$  lower, oats 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ -2 $\frac{1}{2}$  lower, rye 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 cents lower, soybeans 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ -5 $\frac{1}{2}$  lower and lard 26 to 45 cents a hundred pounds lower.

The worry about deliveries of cash grain on December contracts first became apparent in Wednesday's session. December oats were a particular target for selling. On Friday this selling spread to other December contracts. Deferred months declined in sympathy.

Main trouble with soybeans continued to be the highly depressed situation in soybean meal, although a slight firming tendency was noted as the week drew to a close. On Wednesday bean meal was quoted at $46.00 to $47.00 a ton, lowest in about 10 years.

Main weakness toward the week's close, however, appeared in corn and oats. This followed issuance of the Agriculture Department's outlook issue of "The Feed Situation." There was little to comfort the bulls in this review.

"Feed Prices," the publication said, "are expected to average lower in the 1955-56 feeding season than in 1954-55. At the beginning of the season (Oct. 1) they were substantially lower than a year earlier, and are expected to remain lower, at least through the winter."

Minor Leagues Will Try To Curb Spending For Bonus Players

By JOE REICHLER

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Legislation is for the extension of the agreement between the National Association for minor leagues and protecting amateur baseball from the inroads of Majors for another five years. The proposal, which has been voted current agreement, will expire Dec. 31. All amendments in particular favor from North Carolina, particularly that is, because these two states claim to have a monopoly on the real wild hog, the European boar.

A total of 16 amendments to the league's bylaws during their convention, major-minor league agreement and far at Chicago the first week in November, will be submitted. The proposals include unstructured draft of minor players with their annual player draft on January 1. The executive session will begin Wednesday afternoon and last through Friday.

The proposed legislation designed to curb the bonus sprees is the brain child of Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs. Submitted by the Southern League at the request of the Nashville Vols, who have a working agreement with the Reds, it would require placing the bonus law with a "first year player rule."

Bolded down, the proposal defines a "first year player" as one who has not previously been credited with 90 days of active service on any team in organized baseball in any season prior to signing as a free agent. It then proposes that when any first year player is selected by a Major League team, that club must retain him on its roster for one season from the date he signed.

If the club does not retain the player it must assign him outright either to another major league club or to a minor league team. The major league club acquiring this player would be under the same restriction.

Nowadays there are about 500 boars in the 80,000-acre Tellico Game and Fish Management Area where Tennessee and U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service officials now authorize a supervised hunt each fall.

A few words on what to expect in boar hunting come from Paul Moore, Tennessee state photographer for whom his bosses claim a rare distinction: he's one of the two men run down by a boar who lived to report it. Moore was saved by a hound that diverted the hog long enough for gunners to stop it.

These boars weigh up to 400 pounds and may either travel alone or in herds. They may range 10 miles a day when unmolested, but they're the fastest animals on the mountains and can run for hours if they choose. They have tusks that may be several inches long, and an armor-plated of gristle over their shoulders — designed by nature to turn other boars' tusks, but handy for rifle bullets too.

They're best hunted with hounds and may be brought to bay several times by a skilled and courageous pack. The usual pattern is for a boar to toss dogs until the hunter appears on the scene, whereupon the boar either will charge the man like a runaway locomotive or run again until the hounds turn him.

"If this rule is adopted," Paul said, "all clubs, Major and Minor, would hesitate about giving any sizable amount of money to any player to sign as a 'first year player' because they would run the risk of losing their investment in him in a hurry."

A counter proposal submitted by the Charleston club of the American Association would eliminate the bonus rule altogether. It would permit clubs to bid as high as they wish for players and give them the same treatment as any other player.

A proposal by the Dallas club of the Texas League would increase the draft price of selected players 50 per cent. The current price range from $15,000 for a player selected from Pacific Coast league open classification down to $2,000 for a Class D player.

The Dallas club also has proposed that players from all minor leagues, regardless of their classification, be permitted to waive their selection rights if they so desire. At present only players in the Pacific Coast League enjoy that privilege. The same proposal would also make all eligible players subject to draft. At present only one player can be drafted from a club.

The proposal dealing with radio and television would limit the broadcasting or televising of games by a Major or Minor League club from a station located outside of its home territory. The home territory is defined as the territory included within a radius of 75 miles from the ball park.

The Denver club of A.A. has proposed that Major League clubs cut down to their 25-player limit on opening day of the season instead of 30 days after the start of the season. It also asks that the 25-player limit remain in effect for the entire season instead of ending 20 days before the close of the campaign, as now provided.

Other minor amendments pertain to the college rule, national defense players, playing rules, and proposals for the major league clubs to pay salaries, in part or in full, of the managers they assign to minor league clubs with whom they have a working agreement.

OUTDOOR COLUMN

By DION HENDERSON
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pigs may be pigs, like the fellow said. But if your breakfast bacon came from kin to a Tennessee wild boar, don't approach the table unarmed.

That at least is the advice of experts from the land of Davy Crockett. And it is seconded with particular fervor from North Carolina. Particular, that is, because these two states claim to have a monopoly on the real wild hog, the European boar.

He's the all-around free-style, no-holds-barred, open, all-age champion of the big game division in the eastern United States.

Yes, in answer to the question that immediately occurs, including the bear class, Tennessee rangers can count by the scattered piles of broken bones the bears that debate the issue.

According to Tennessee's department of conservation, the European boar first was introduced in this country near Hooper Bald, in the mountains of western North Carolina. That was in April of 1912, and the stocking project was part of a plan by English sportsmen to set up a large hunting club in the southern highlands, financed by a bond issue.

Bodied down, the proposal defines a "first year player" as one who has not previously been credentialed with 90 days of active service on any team in organized baseball in any season prior to signing as a free agent. It then proposes that when any first year player is selected by a Major League team, that club must retain him on its roster for one season from the date he signed.

If the club does not retain the player it must assign him outright either to another major league club or to a minor league team. The major league club acquiring this player would be under the same restriction.

The same restrictions apply to the player if he is transferred to another Major League Club. If the player, however, is assigned to the minors during his first season, he would then become subject to unrestricted selection at the next draft meeting. The draft price would be $6,000, and he could not be re-acquired by the big league club which sent him down. Unlike the bonus rule it sets no limit on the amount of money which could be paid a first year man.

The present bonus tag is applied to a free agent who receives more than $4,000 in his first year. He is required to stay in the majors for two years and cannot be sent to the minors without being subject to draft.

"If this rule is adopted," Paul said, "all clubs, Major and Minor, would hesitate about giving any sizable amount of money to any player to sign as a 'first year player' because they would run the risk of losing their investment in him in a hurry."

A counter proposal submitted by the Charleston club of the American Association would eliminate the bonus rule altogether. It would permit clubs to bid as high as they wished for players and give them the same treatment as any other player.

A proposal by the Dallas club of the Texas League would increase the draft price of selected players 50 per cent. The current price range from $15,000 for a player selected from Pacific Coast league open classification down to $2,000 for a Class D player.

The Dallas club also has proposed that players from all minor leagues, regardless of their classification, be permitted to waive their selection rights if they so desire.

At present only players in the Pacific Coast League enjoy that privilege. The same proposal would also make all eligible players subject to draft. At present only one player can be drafted from a club.

Don Fairfield Shoots 4 Under Par To Take Lead In Golf Open

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—He wrested the lead away from Don Fairfield, a young shotmaker from Casey, Ill., fashioned a four-under par 68 Saturday to take a round with a one-stroke lead when he managed to match par Friday in the second annual $5,000 West in the 36-36-72 Country Club Palm Beach Open golf tournament course.

Finsternwald shot another 72 Saturday but was tied with two others for the runnerup position. The others were Wally Ulrich of Minneapolis, with 70 strokes in the second round, and Mike Fetchick, Cincinnati, who fired a 71 Saturday.

Fairfield, 26, gained some advantage from the fact that he shot his round early in the day. The wind rose later, reaching gusts of some 15 miles an hour, and affected the late-starting players' games.

Fairfield reached the quarter finals in the last National Professional Golfers Assn. tournament before he was eliminated by Shelly Mayfield. He tied for second in the recent Garden City Open.

Two prime upsets—Army's stunning 14-6 reversal of Navy and Southern California's equally surprising 42-20 victory over Notre Dame—featured the day's play.

Georgia Tech, TCU And Mississippi Receive Bowl Bids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Georgia Tech, Texas Christian and Mississippi—each racking up impressive victories—were rewarded with bowl bids Saturday as the college football season came to a close in dramatic fashion.

Two prime upsets—Army's stunning 14-6 reversal of Navy and Southern California's equally surprising 42-20 victory over Notre Dame—featured the day's play.

Georgia Tech trampled Georgia 21-3 to nail down the vacant Sugar Bowl spot. TCU defeated Southern Methodist 20-13 and will meet Mississippi, which beat Mississippi State 26-0, in the Cotton Bowl.

Navy crumpled under Army's ground attack in the second half and the Cadets went on to knock the Midshipmen from contention for a Cotton Bowl position.

Thus the post-season bowl picture shapes up this way:

ROSE BOWL — Michigan State (8-1) vs UCLA (9-1).

SUGAR BOWL — Georgia Tech (8-1) vs Pittsburgh (7-3).

ORANGE BOWL — Oklahoma (10-0) vs Maryland (10-0).

COTTON BOWL — TCU (9-1) vs Mississippi (9-1).

GATOR BOWL — Teams still to be selected.

Oklahoma, the nation's top ranked team, easily rolled to its 29th straight victory by swamping Oklahoma A&M 53-0.

Lausse Wants Bout With R. B. Olson After Win Friday

NEW YORK (AP)—Eduardo Lause wants Bobo Olson. Gene Fullmer wants Lause again. And the fans want to see more of both middleweights.

That's the situation after Friday night's 10-round match at Madison Square Garden in which Lause won a unanimous decision over the "Cyclone" from West Jordan, Utah.

Referee Mark Conn and Judge Joe Angelo scored it 7-3 and Judge Bert Grant 6-3-1, all for Lause. The AP ringside card also had it 7-3 for the scowling South American who now has won 30 straight.

Fullmer neutralized Lause's left hook in the early stages by squatting in and out of a shell defense with crisp counter punches. He kept moving to his left in clockwise fashion away from the hook that has helped Lause knock out 48 men while compiling a 60-6 record.

When Lause switched from left hook to right hand, he began to penetrate Fullmer's defense. It was a long right to the head that first hurt Fullmer in the fourth. Fullmer had been out front, winning two of the first three on all cards and shaking up Lause in the third to the wiskers in the third.

Fullmer won the fifth in which Lause suffered a cut over his right eye but on this scorecard he won the rest of the scrap. The 28-year-old slugger from Buenos Aires handed out the heavier punishment as they matched punches in many toe-to-toe flurries.

In the eighth round, Lause, 159, dropped Fullmer, 156, with a left hook. Although the knockdown counter counted as high as "four," Referee Conn ruled no knockdown. Later he said it was "a stumble, half off balance." Most ringsiders thought it was a legitimate knockdown.

"I like to fight Olson," said Lause through an interpreter. "He comes in, I know I beat him. Fullmer strong boy. Takes good punch. I knock him down clean. I see his eyes cross when I hit him."

Fullmer thought he won it "about 6-4" and figured he outboxed Lause who was "aiming too high." He would like to fight Lause again or anybody else.

Dick Lewis, former Routt football star, saw plenty of action this season for Coach Billy Stone and the Bradley Braves.

Dick made quite a name for himself as a lineman during his high school career for four seasons. Routt won the 3C conference in Dick's freshman year 1951 and in 1954, his senior year.

Finsternwald shot another 72 Saturday but was tied with two others for the runnerup position. The others were Wally Ulrich of Minneapolis, with 70 strokes in the second round, and Mike Fetchick, Cincinnati, who fired a 71 Saturday.

Football Players Don't Like Coach At Univ. Of Wash.

SEATTLE (AP)—Grumbling members of the University of Washington football squad who have been saying more or less anonymously "we don't like Coach John Cherberg" put it in writing Friday night.

What they said—in a statement carrying the names of 30 members of the 50-man Washington squad—was essentially what they told Harry Cassell, the university's director of athletics, last Monday and Tuesday.

After a lengthy preamble setting forth their good intentions, the statement said this:

"In regard to the future football program, the players are not satisfied with coaching methods and the handling of personnel. Players are not impressed with Cherberg as a leader. The attitude of players will prevail for years to come when recruiting will be a vital factor of the UW program."

"We do not agree with what is considered by the coach as a successful or unsuccessful season."

"X X As a freshman coach Cherberg was respected on and off the field and under no pressure. He appears to be affected now as a varsity coach by pressure to win especially during the season when every game becomes a grudge battle. His reaction to individual members of the team and the team as a whole when losing is inconsistent."

"He is not consistent in expressing his idea of their effort by failing to place personal animosity secondary to team effort. Players have been shocked and befuddled by the coach's reaction under various pressure conditions because of failure to carry out assignments, etc. His unusual outbursts reflecting upon the players character, intelligence and ability does not add to team morale."

Cherberg, who has remained silent throughout the week of complaints and charges, broke silence briefly to say:

"The coaching staff is studying all phases of the situation, and we will arrive at a decision when we have all the facts."

This Week... At Dixon Springs

Fall Plowing

Most of the Station fields grow pasture nearly every year. These pastures become thin and unproductive and need renovation every few years. One renovation system is to grow a corn crop followed by small grain with the new pasture seeded in the small grain.

We are now plowing some of the old pastures. The plowing crew is being careful because fall plowing can be costly in soil losses. They are plowing deep and on the contour, but are leaving the grass waterways and the steep slopes. An old pasture sod is rich in fibrous roots. If you plow it deeply enough and leave it in the rough, it will readily absorb water and slow down runoff so that soil losses will be amazingly low.

Bang's Vaccination and Bulls

This past week during cattle round-up the heifer calves, but not the bulls, were vaccinated against brucellosis with "Strain 19" vaccine. At least two cattlemen during the past week have asked why they should not vaccinate their bulls. Our Station veterinarian's answer is worth passing on. Dr. Mansfield says that first, bulls get ready for the lambing season are only rarely infected with Bang's disease, and therefore vac-cine is not necessary. Second, easy to read but are sometimes he says that in bulls the brucellosis lost causing the ewes' identity to infection is often seated in the ewe lost. Just to be sure, Norris testes. Vaccinating bulls runs the ear-tattoo each ewe in addition risk of making them sterile or to putting on the metal tags.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

Crops Equal Record Despite Acreage Cuts

Farmers achieved a record crop production in 1955 despite acreage restrictions on their "Big 4" crops—corn, wheat, cotton and tobacco. Total production of all crops this year matches the previous all-time high output of 1948. Over-all average per acre yield was 9 per cent about the previous record, also set in 1948. Thus farmers this year equaled the record production of 1948 with 8 per cent fewer acres.

Since 1952, the last year without acreage restrictions, harvested acreage of wheat has been reduced from 71 million to 47 million, and acreage of cotton from 26 million to 17 million.

Some farmers have also reduced their corn acreage, but others have increased it, so the total remains at 81 million acres, the same as in 1952. Land planted to tobacco has been reduced from 1.8 million acres to 1.5 million.

CORN AND WHEAT. The 1955 corn crop is estimated at nearly 3.2 billion bushels, 7 per cent more than last year and 3 per cent above the ten-year average. The carry-over was over 1.0 billion bushels, so the supply totals 4.2 billion compared with 3.9 billion a year ago.

Wheat production in 1955 is estimated at 916 million bushels, which is 6 per cent less than last year and 20 per cent less than average. Per acre yield was 13 per cent greater than the 10-year average. Carry-over was 1.021 million bushels, or 13 per cent more than the year before. This carry-over is the first in history to be larger than the new crop.

COTTON AND TOBACCO. The cotton crop this year is about 14.8 million bales, 8 per cent more than last year and 17 per cent more than average. The carry-over totals 1.1 million bales, making a supply of 26 million bales, or 11 per cent more than a year ago. Production of cottonseed, which competes strongly with soybeans, is estimated to be 6.1 million tons, or 9 per cent more than in 1954.

Tobacco production is estimated at 2.278 million pounds, 2 per cent more than last year on 9 per cent fewer acres and 8 per cent more than the 10-year average, although it was produced on 14 per cent less acres than the average.

SOYBEANS. Soybeans are the nation's fifth ranking money crop, are estimated at 372 million bushels, or 26 per cent more than last year and 50 per cent more than the average for the 10 years 1944-53. Soybeans have increased from 14 million acres in 1952 to 18 million this year.

Most of the United States had better than usual crops this year. The only large region having poor crops was the Great Plains where yields were low in a belt from southern Texas northward through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota.

COMPETING FEED CROPS. Production of all of the four principal feed crops that compete with corn and soybeans was far above the 10-year average, and two of them reached new record highs. The hay crop totaled 110 million tons, 5 per cent more than last year; 8 per cent more than average and a new record high. Oats totaled 1.6 billion bushels, 9 per cent more than last year, 24 per cent more than average and also a new record. Sorghum grain is estimated at 227 million bushels, 11 per cent more than last year and 67 per cent more than average. Barley totaled 38.7 million bushels, 4 per cent more than the year before and 44 per cent above average.

U.I. Extension Service, Chain Store Council Honor 4-H Leaders

The lack of individual initiative is the weak spot in Russia's agriculture, but the Communists are dreaming vast dreams to make food and fibre available to them and their satellites.

So declared Charles J. Hearst, Cedar Falls, Ia., farmer when he addressed 400 volunteer 4-H leaders from all sections of Illinois last Tuesday afternoon. Hearst, who is a member of the foreign policy committee of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, was one of 22 farmers who visited Europe in 1947 in behalf of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation to study European needs prior to the adoption of the Marshall plan.

Last summer Hearst was one of the farmer exchange group that visited Russian farms. While So-viet farm leaders visited his farm on their tour of inspection of American agricultural methods.

Scott — Mrs. Audrey Stegeman, Bluffs; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Day, Roodhouse; Mrs. Wayne Hudson, Manchester and Eleanor Wilcox, assistant home adviser, Jacksonville.

The 4-H leaders, who volunteer their efforts and time annually to make the 4-H program an outstanding success in education, were the guests of the extension service, Farm and Home Bureaus of the state and the Illinois Chain Store council. Hearst spoke following the serving of a Swiss steak dinner in the ballroom of the Abraham Lincoln hotel, Springfield.

Earlier, at 10 a.m. the leaders gathered at the Centennial Building auditorium, where they heard Lt. Gov. John W. Chapman tell how the legislative branch of state government works. Milton D. Thompson, state museum curator, spoke on some of the interesting things to be found there and conducted the guests on a tour of the museum.

Farm Bureau Short Course To Open Here Thursday

Paradox: Farm Income Slumps Sharply, But Land Prices Zoom Up

Value of Illinois farm lands and buildings increased about 40 percent in the four and a half years between the census of April 1950 and that of 1954.

Figures compiled by C. L. Stewart of the University of Illinois department of agricultural economics show that the average price of land was $242 an acre at the time the 1954 census was taken. That's an increase of nearly $68 an acre from the 1950 census.

Here in Morgan County the jump was considerably higher than the state average, according to the census. The value per acre in Morgan county was set at $181.46 in 1950 and $280.26 for 1954, an increase of 54%.

Average price in the cash-grain area of 18 counties in the central and east-central sections of the state surpassed the state average by 34 percent.

The $383-per-acre average in this highly productive area was $45 an acre higher than the next highest average in the northeast dairy area even though the second figure reflects the very high values around Chicago.

All Areas Higher
Why were the increases so general in central and southern Illinois? Stewart thinks there are several reasons:

Land in many of these counties slid to extremely low levels in the middle 1930s. This was especially true of much of southern Illinois.

Mechanical power gave farmers on most Illinois land opportunities for handling the land for crop production to better advantage.

Interest in enlarging farms and in applying savings from farm operations and from other occupations to purchase of farm land was shown in many parts of the state.

As in most major agricultural regions of the nation, price-cost relationships were favorable to high net returns from farming during much of the period from 1935 to 1951.

Returns to farming have been less strikingly favorable in the past three or four years. However, the desire to enlarge farms in order to make more efficient use of equipment and labor supplies has been persistent.

MOOSE ARE RINGERS
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (P — The city's public museum, which exhibits just about every mammal in Michigan, has been caught with three imposters — a moose bull, a cow and a calf.

The three came from Wyoming because, say museum officials, it's easier to bag the animals on a Wyoming hunting trip than to unsnarl the red tape surrounding Michigan's protected herd on Isle Royale.

Cost account records show that about a 17-bushel yield is needed to pay the cost of producing an acre of soybeans in central Illinois.

By contrast with January 1, 1935, the values reported for 1954 showed a remarkable increase throughout the state. In 35 counties the rate of increase was between

WING-MENDING SESSION

With the prospect that President Eisenhower may not run for a second term, the battered right wing of the Republican party has begun to sprout new feathers.

The object of a revival at this time, of course, would be to gain the 1956 GOP presidential nomination for a right-wing candidate.

After the President's heart attack, it was widely assumed among the political experts that, whether or not Eisenhower ran again, the forces representing him in the party would be strong enough to control the nomination.

This may or may not be so. But clearly, many right-wing elements are no longer accepting that assumption. They are in fact very busy planning to recapture the party heights.

At the moment their rallying point is Sen. William F. Knowland of California, the GOP Senate leader. It has been reliably reported he would be a candidate if Eisenhower is not. Associates of the senator say they look for him to enter the California primary. There are indications he might also make a run in Oregon and possibly Minnesota.

Obviously, even if he entered and won these and a few other primaries, Knowland would not go to the San Francisco convention with decisive strength. So right-wingers are planning to button up a number of other states by a variety of maneuvers.

In some cases, right-wing leaders would be asked to stand as favorite sons. A persistent rumor has it that Senator McCarthy might be a candidate in his home state of Wisconsin and perhaps others. McCarthy's denial is something less than flat.

No one is saying at this time whether Knowland, who heretofore has shied away from full identification with the right wing, is willing to be cast in the role of right-wing candidate. If he should say "no" to that, this group would have to look elsewhere for a man.

Plans are still a bit cloudy, but there is no doubt the planners are at work. A new weekly conservative magazine edited by William F. Buckley, Jr., McCarthy's supporter, outspokenly announces the right wing's intention to get the nomination.

If these plans go forward with gathering energy, the Republican party in 1956 may experience an internal struggle that will match the bruising 1952 contest between Eisenhower and the late Senator Taft.

SUMMING UP GENEVA

Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have wisely determined to sound a fresh note of hope for peace in the wake of the futile Geneva foreign ministers' conference.

They understand that the United States, the acknowledged leader of the Western coalition of free nations, cannot give way to a mood of defeatism in the quest for peace. Its moral position in the world demands that it reaffirm—as the President has quickly done—the earnestness of our continuing search.

In that spirit, Dulles sought in his report to the nation on Geneva to salvage what hope he could from that dismal meeting.

He said he did not think the Geneva setback increased the danger of a hot war. He voiced doubt that Russia would resume the harsher tactics of the Cold War. And he said he believes the Kremlin wishes now to maintain "at least" the appearance of cooperative relations" with the West.

Dulles noted Mr. Eisenhower's statement that the earlier "summit" meeting at Geneva had reduced the chances of general war. The secretary said that nothing which occurred at the foreign minister's gathering compels a change in the President's estimate.

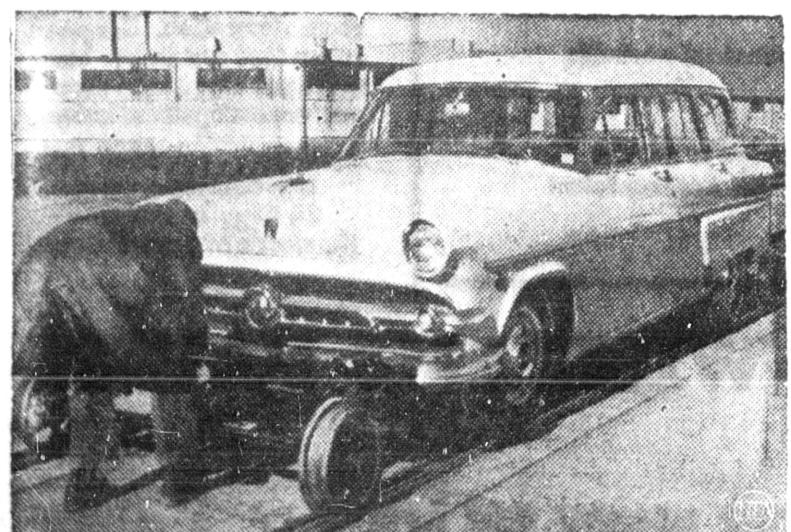

But, on the negative side of the ledger, Dulles made clear that the cause of peace did not get the forward push the West hoped for at the conference.

Moscow simply is not ready to pay the price they must to create the basic circumstances for a stable peace. "We must assume that the Soviet Union will continue its efforts by means short of war," he said, "to make its system prevail as it has done in the past."

The reasons are plain. The Russians still firmly believe communism will triumph, that time is on their side. They are unlikely to yield so long as they regard the evidence for this conclusion convincing.

Dulles suggested that if the West can maintain the admirable unity it displayed at Geneva, and can keep up its decisive strength, the realists in Russia might be made to see that their estimate of victory is wrong. Only then could we expect them to pay the necessary price for a genuine world settlement.

Dulles' report could not have been cheerful in the circumstances. But it gave no satisfaction either to those at home or abroad who like to assail this government as professionally gloomy over the outlook for peace. It was as hopeful as the facts permitted. And it faced the facts without despair.

MEET THE "TREDAN"—They call it that because it's both a train and a sedan. It is one of four 1954 Ford sedans especially equipped as rail inspection cars by the Illinois Central's Paducah, Ky., shops. Pairs of flanged steel wheels are attached to the front and rear of the car to hold it on the railroad tracks. The changeover from highway to rail operation and vice versa requires only a few minutes.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Conference on Education, opening a four-day meeting here Monday, may find some answers to the school problem—but

There is skepticism that the 1,800 men and women—teachers, labor, farm and civic leaders, businessmen and professional people—from 48 states and the territories with divergent views can reach agreements.

The conference already is being called a game of musical chairs because of unusual seating arrangements and procedures which will not permit wide-open debate or voting.

The delegates will have to transact their business through discussion in small groups. They will be seated at 180 tables, 10 to a table. Before looking at the background of this conference, and what it faces, here are the six questions which will be discussed:

(1) What should our schools accomplish? (2) In what ways can we organize our school systems more efficiently and economically? (3) What are our school building needs? (4) How can we get enough good teachers—and keep them? (5) How can we finance our schools—build and operate them? (6) How can we obtain a continuing public interest in education?

President Eisenhower in his State of the Union message Jan. 7, 1954, proposed a national conference on education. Since preparation was needed, he wrote the governors and executives of the territories and possessions, suggesting this:

That they call conferences of people from various walks of life—teachers, labor people, civic leaders, and so on—to talk over what they thought should be done.

Meanwhile, Eisenhower appointed a 34-man committee of his own—also from various groups—headed by Neil H. McElroy, president of the Procter & Gamble Co. of Cincinnati.

All the states and territories had conferences. The president's committee met a number of times. Congress voted $900,000 to pay the over-all expenses. Now the delegates have come here for the big meeting.

This is how the conference will work:

Each table of 10 picks a chairman, then discusses the six questions one at a time, starting with No. 1.

Each chairman draws up a report on what he thinks was the majority view at his table on question No. 1. Then these 180 chairmen move to 18 tables, 10 to a table, pick a chairman, and discuss problem No. 1.

Then each of these 18 chairmen draws up a report on what he thinks was the majority view at his table. Next the 18 chairmen move to two tables, nine to a table. Each table picks a chairman and discusses problem No. 1.

The two remaining chairmen get together and draw up a report on what they think was the majority view at their two tables. And they make their report to all 180 conferees.

Then the whole thing starts over again on question No. 2. And so on until all majority views on all six questions have been reported to the conference. These six reports from the conference are to go to the President's 34-man committee.

Sometime in January, perhaps, this committee will make recommendations to the President.

Then it's up to Eisenhower to make recommendations, if any, to Congress.

GOP Needs New Attempt to Close Breach With Labor

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In addition to a new farm policy that will satisfy discontented farmers, the Republican party today could use a new labor policy statement that would make mode of an appeal to the rank and file of American workers.

Recent statements by two Republican senators could have the effect of kicking the union labor vote out the window.

First Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) charged that AFL and CIO goon squads were collecting huge shun funds from compulsory union assessments to take over the Democratic party of 1941-1952 under the Democrats were largely compensation for increases in the cost of living.

Under the GOP, the cost of living has been held steady. They point to greater peacetime prosperity than the country has ever had, and fewer and shorter strikes.

The Republican trouble is that they can't get this story in the papers or on the air. Vice President Richard M. Nixon and other party spokesmen have put this line in.

"It has worked out in my case," said the lovely wife of producer Tony Owen. "I don't mean you should have long absences from each other; Tony was gone three months one year while filming a picture in Africa, and that was too long.

"I do think that a week apart every now and then has a wonderful effect on our marriage. The little differences disappear and you begin to think about the big reasons you should be together. After a week of going to a party or two alone and not having him to talk five times a day, I'm more than happy to see him back."

This is why a revision of Republican labor policy statements is being called for.

What this new statement of principles should say has the party leaders baffled.

THE QUESTION WAS CONSIDERED at the Republican campaign school for GOP state chairmen, in Washington last September. The organization of state and local Republican Rank and File Labor Committees was suggested.

Extreme positions have to be rejected. Political realists don't hold with the theory that American working people always vote independently, and there is no such thing as a labor vote. At the opposite pole, there is little support for the idea labor is going to take over the government.

From the big labor bosses like George Meany and Walter Reuther, the Republicans realize that they will never get a break. The labor leaders face a predicament. They have no clear statement of party policy to hold up as a repudiation to those who

But here the party leaders face a predicament. They have no clear statement of party policy to hold up as a repudiation to those who would like to declare all-out war on labor unions and put the country on an open-shop basis.

Middle-of-the-road Republicans think they have several good points to make in an appeal to the labor press is likewise consistently and persistently anti-Republican.

For Jesus, decidedly, was not an ascetic. If he commanded and exemplified a strict and exacting rule of life, it was a rule based and founded in love: the love of God, and brotherly love. He described himself as having "come eating and drinking" (Luke 7:34). He mingled freely with the "common people" who heard Him gladly. He attended a wedding feast and was entertained in homes. As for ritual and strict observance that had no moral or spiritual reality. He said that the Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

The article to which I have referred is an extensive review by Frank M. Cross, Jr., of McCormick Theological Seminary, of Edmund Wilson's book, The Scrolls From the Dead Sea. Both author and reviewer are agreed that the scrolls have been important in relation to both the Old and New Testaments, but they are obviously in disagreement as to the significance of the scrolls.

That's the quotation Donna Reed uses to support her theory that husbands and wives should spend time away from each other.

"It has worked out in my case," said the lovely wife of producer Tony Owen. "I don't mean you should have long absences from each other; Tony was gone three months one year while filming a picture in Africa, and that was too long.

"I do think that a week apart every now and then has a wonderful effect on our marriage. The little differences disappear and you begin to think about the big reasons you should be together. After a week of going to a party or two alone and not having him to talk five times a day, I'm more than happy to see him back."

The Academy Award winner ("From Here to Eternity") thinks that not only Hollywood marriages that can be strengthened by absences.

"When I got out of college, I had about 15 or 20 friends who married early," she remarked. "They had families right away, and they were miserable.

"They loved their families, but they were harassed. Day in, day out, they were tied down to the house. It gave them no mental stimulation.

"Somehow a housewife should be able to get away for at least a day a week. I don't mean to shop for food or furniture, but to do something completely apart from their house work—like going to a concert or the planetarium or something.

"I know it's hard for most women to do. But there's usually a way—leave the kids with the woman down the street or something I think it's important. The wives will return home refreshed and ready to return to their chores with new spirit."

THOUGHTS

And he laid his hands on her; and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.—Luke 13:13.

If from his home the lad that day His five small loaves had failed to take,

Would Christ have wrought—can any say—

This miracle beside the lake?

—Margaret Preston.

And I have now and again pointed out that perfect housekeepers often maintain their reputations by sending their own children off to play in someone else's house.

So I was pleased, indeed, to find that a magazine devoted to beautiful homes and yards is aware that a growing number of people today are decorating their kids right out of their homes and yards.

As Lee Priestley, who wrote the article, points out: "Time was when kids at least had the outdoors to themselves . . . where they could dig a garden, start a fire to roast potatoes, or build something soul-satisfying and hideous out of odds bits of board and an old piano box."

"But," says Mr. Priestley, "there's no space for all that in an adult outdoor living room."

And a woman's dream of what a house should look like may not take into consideration whether or not it can withstand the kind of hard usage any house gets that a family really "lives" in.

So it is good to see that at least one decorating journal is aware that the desire to have a beautiful house and a charming outdoor living room can, if we aren't sensible, crowd our children right out of the picture.

Our decorating magazines have done a great deal to make our homes and yards more beautiful—but it is just as well for them to be aware that beauty can be oversold.

After all, we buy a house and yard to live in—not just to let others look at.

LAY CORNERSTONE AT NEW JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

School Board, Citizens At Ceremonies

Board of Education officials and school patrons joined Thursday morning in a cornerstone laying ceremony at the site of the new $900,000 junior high school on Lincoln Ave.

In the steel and stone framework of the structure which will serve 600 pupils, a copper box containing a complete index of school and community life in 1955 was sealed into the facade.

Supt. J. A. Mann of District 117, who presided at the opening of the exercises explained that should the cornerstone box be opened "100 or 150 years from now," its contents would be found to include school directories, text book lists, yearbooks, school records, newspapers, a telephone directory and other documents.

Band Opens Ceremony

Picking their way through a yet unpaved area in front of the school, the David Prince High school band and other participants gathered at 10:30 a.m. on Thanksgiving morning. The band opened the program with a number, directed by James Welch.

The invocation was offered by Rev. Joseph W. Baus, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

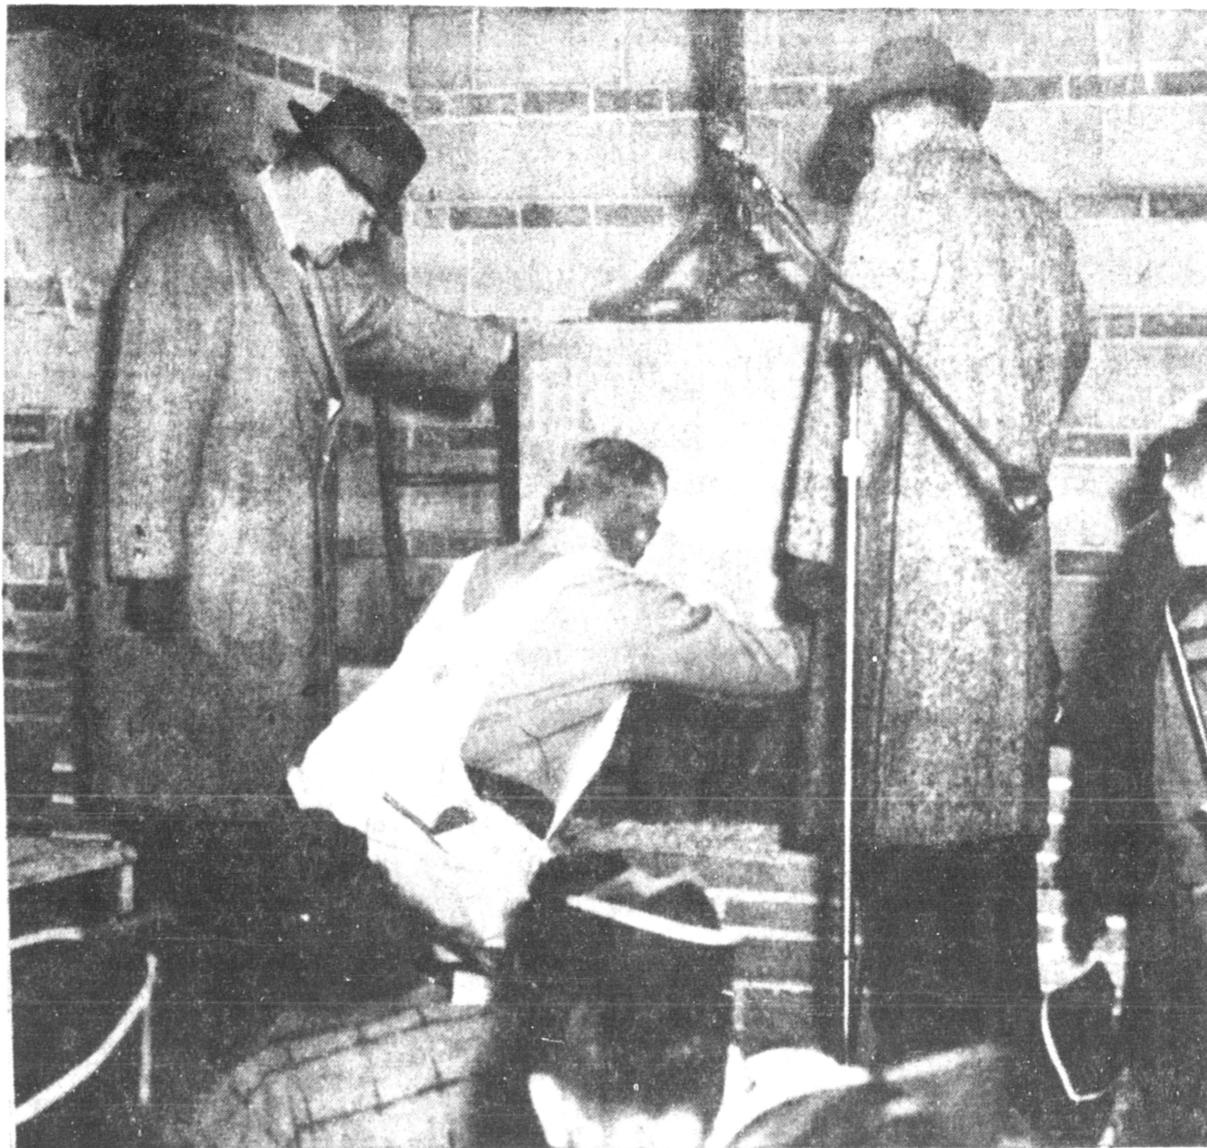

Members of the board of education were introduced by Supt. Mann. The board consists of T. C. Rammekamp, president; Dr. T. J. Wilson, John Bonke, Dr. James L. Bunch, Mrs. Friedrich Engelbach, Mrs. C. L. Kanatzar and Kenneth K. Stapleton.

R. Karl Baker, representing the Citizens Advisory committee of 36 members, reviewed the concerted efforts of school patrons to secure a new junior high, to replace the present building which has become inadequate due to the growth of the community. He complimented the board of education for its helpful interest and speedy action.

Mrs. Jay Hamilton, representing Parent-Teacher groups, and Mrs. Amy Roach, speaking for teachers, expressed hope that the new building will serve as a cultural and educational center for generations to come.

"A Wonderful Addition"

Attorney Rammekamp, president of the board, said the new junior high will be "a wonderful addition to our present school system." He pointed out, however, that interest of school officials and citizens should not be permitted to lag

R. Karl Baker (left) of the Citizens Advisory committee and Attorney T. C. Rammekamp, president of the Board of Education of School District 117, look on as Morse Updegraff, brickmason, concretes the cornerstone into position.

"We have one of the finest sets of school buildings of any community in the state," he remarked, "all of the buildings being less than 20 or 25 years old. But problems continue to come along, and the people should maintain a continuous interest in school affairs."

The board president said the reconstruction of the present David Prince High school building to needs of the expanding high school is the first immediate action that demands attention.

Seal Box In Stone

The cornerstone was then swung into place and trowels and cement were applied by Rammekamp and Baker, representing the board and citizens, assisted by Morse Updegraff of the Hugh Gibson construction company.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Baus.

The cornerstone is located at the right of the main entrance on Lincoln avenue. A large stone bears the inscription "AD 1955," the year in which the school will be completed.

Among contents of the cornerstone box are copies of the Journal and Courier as of November 20 and 23, 1955.

Work on the school, yet to be a graduate of the local school and named, will continue steadily and it is expected to be in readiness for use next fall.

Carolyn Reports An Interesting Conversation

Judy and her father were talking one night. Let's listen!

Judy: "Dad, what do you think your greatest investment in school is?"

Dad: "Well, I never gave it much thought but I guess it is money."

Judy: "Oh no! Money is not that important. It is 'us' and the teachers. It is the future of our country!"

Dad: "I see what you mean. I never saw it that way before. I thought it was important but I guess I took it for granted."

Judy: "Then you do see now?"

Dad: "Judy I want to thank you for explaining to me."

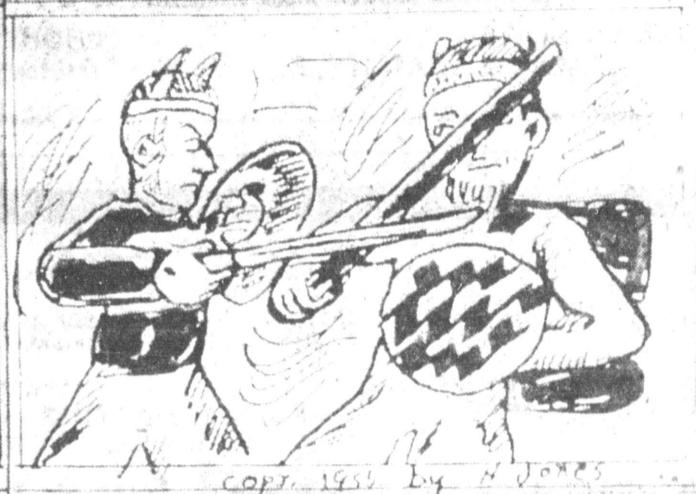

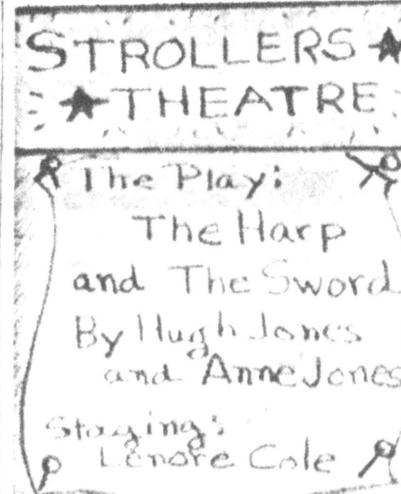

Did you ever think about your schools, how important they are? Why if there were no schools there would be no liberty, no democracy, no nothing?

There are still some good education articles waiting for space on the Junior page.

If your article was one of those selected, keep watching, for we will keep printing these when we have room.

Someone is loosening the bonds of the king and generals.

The leader of the battle is Wilhelm. He outdoes all others in bravery and strength. He is the hero of the tribe.

The prisoners leap on the startled Frisians. Other Chauci rush to their aid.

Wants To Teach

School is important to me because it helps me to learn.

If I didn't go to school, I wouldn't learn anything.

I want to be a teacher someday. I want to grow up to be a good American and learn about politics.

The Locket Mystery

By Regina Baldwin

By Regina Baldwin

"Mother, mother," called Barbara loudly. "Where's my gold locket?"

"I don't know," called mother from the kitchen. "You won't have time to look for it now if you want to be on time for school. Breakfast is waiting on the table, so come on in now."

"Oh, goodness, mother. I did so want to wear the locket today. I know I put it down on my dresser top the other day."

"Yes," replied mother. "You probably did. But you also pile everything else on top of your dresser. There's no telling what happened to it. Come on and eat your breakfast now. I'll try to look for it later on in the morning."

"Okay, mother, but gee, I'm sure disappointed. I was going to be the only girl in our room with a gold locket on."

Barbara sat down at the table and began eating her breakfast while she combed her hair.

Her father got quite angry when a few of her long, blonde hairs settled in his cereal bowl.

Poor Combination

"For goodness sake, comb your hair before you come to the table. If there's anything I don't like with my cereal it's hair!"

"But, father, you don't want me to go to school looking like an unbrushed French Poodle, do you?"

"Your father's right, Barbara," said mother. "The place to brush your hair is not at the breakfast table. After all, father doesn't shave while he's eating his toast, does he?"

"No," grumbled Barbara. "But the only reason he doesn't is because he'd rather have straw."

"Yes, the locket mystery, or

Willard Evans was admitted the forepart of the week to the Memorial hospital in Springfield for medical check-up.

A jubilant Santa Claus and his eight reindeers from the North Pole came up North Main street Friday afternoon to say "Hello" to his many friends in the Jacksonville trading area.

They were met by a king-sized throng of friendly greeters. It was probably the largest crowd on hand to welcome Santa Claus on his annual arrival in Jacksonville.

Santa and his sled and lithesome steeds were aboard a 30 foot trailer that came in from the north, turned to the right and moved around Central Park to East State street. There Santa left his sled to enter his decorated house in the park. He'll be receiving small guests there from now until Christmas time.

Mrs. Silas DeGroot has been informed of the death Wednesday of her father, James Smith of Champaign, who died at the Memorial hospital in Springfield following a stroke.

Mrs. Gertrude Drake underwent surgery last Monday morning, Nov. 21, at St. John hospital, Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Edwards and sons left the latter part of the week for Washington, D. C. to visit relatives.

Miss Marietta Danenberger, who has been a medical patient for three weeks at St. John's hospital in Springfield, returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Danenberger.

Ernest Davison, who returned home the latter part of last week from St. John's hospital, Springfield, where he was a surgical patient for two weeks, returned to the same hospital Monday for further treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Frank and son of New Berlin accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Woods of this city, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hands at Monmouth.

Mrs. Oscar King suffered severe injuries to her right hand Monday when she accidentally caught it in the wringer of her washing machine. Treatment by a physician was for broken blood vessels, loss of one finger nail and broken skin. The wringer caught her arm as far as mid-way to the elbow.

Pope's Account Of Seeing Vision Most Unusual In Modern Church

By GEORGE W. CORNELL NEW YORK (AP) — Pope Pius XII's account of having seen Christ is the most unusual supernatural event recorded in modern church annals.

"So far as has been reported, it is unique in our age," said Father Herbert Rogers, Fordham University theologian.

Not since the fourth century has an occurrence of this kind had the weight of such authority behind it," said a Catholic scholar, Msgr. John Dougherty.

"It brings out the proximity of heaven and earth, which so often escapes us in our busy, active lives."

Not since the days of the Apostles has there been a recorded vision of Christ more vivid or specific than that by the Roman Catholic pontiff.

Italian accounts say that in the depths of his illness last year, but in complete wakefulness, the Pope "saw beside his bed the gentle figure of Jesus," and that Christ spoke to him.

Msgr. Dougherty, of the Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, N.J., said that only once before, so far as cursory research could determine, has the Lord appeared to a Catholic pope.

That was in the 300s, when the Emperor Constantine had halted the savage Christian persecutions in Rome. The vision came to Pope Sylvester as he was consecrating the Mother Church of St. John Lateran there.

A mosaic in the historic church today recalls the mystical episode.

Although the modern Pope's deep piety and high intellect doubtless will produce wide acceptance of the authenticity of his vision, church scholars emphasized an individual Catholic may accept or reject it.

"It isn't binding on the faithful," Father Rogers said.

Father John Sheerin, editor of the Catholic World, noted:

"A private revelation, such as that given to the Holy Father, is not part of the teaching given by Christ to the church."

A Catholic who accepts a private revelation does so not on the infallible teaching authority of the church, but because of the credibility and integrity of the person to whom the revelation has been given."

The Vatican has repeatedly cautioned against excessive readiness to believe in reported visions by highly emotional persons.

Although there have been numerous visions of the Virgin Mary reported — at Lourdes, Fatima and other shrines — the record of appearances of Jesus are extremely rare.

From Pope Pius' description, his vision apparently was of the corporeal type — seen with his eyes open and in a wakeful state.

"The occurrence was in keeping with a person of his great holiness and great leadership," Msgr. Dougherty said. "What makes it so tremendously impressive is that it comes from a man of his great intellect and practical mind."

Rev. William Spencer officiated. Attendants were Miss Winifred Hartle, of Jacksonville, and James Baker, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a light blue suit with navy blue accessories and her corsage was red and white roses.

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is employed in the office of Springfield Auto Supply Co. in Springfield.

Meredosia Schools Plan Activities For Coming Weeks

MEREDOSIA — The Meredosia-Chambersburg schools of Unit 11 were visited Tuesday by Robert Ring and John Price from the office of the state superintendent of schools and by Wilfred Rice, county superintendent. In the evening, Mrs. Joy and the home economics girls served dinner to the visiting officials, school board members and their families and the unit administrators.

The Illinois State Museum will be at the high school November 28. The mobile contains twenty-two exhibits, each telling and showing part of Illinois. Most of the exhibits were prepared by the museum staff, of which Art Sieving is a member. Mr. Sieving has many relatives and friends in this community.

At 8:30 a.m. the Meredosia grade school pupils will begin going thru the Museumobile, followed by the high school students. The afternoon will be reserved for the Chambersburg pupils, who will be transported by bus to the exhibit. Parents are also welcome to view the museumobile exhibits. Merle G. Moore, civil defense coordinator of the State Office of Public Instruction, will speak at an all-school assembly Dec. 6 at 2 p.m. in the high school gym. Even though this is an all-school assembly program, the public is cordially invited to attend. This program is being sponsored by the F.H.A.

Chel Young, Dale Pittenger and Joe Brooks were the guests of honor at a chicken pie dinner November 16 prepared by their wives in observing their birthdays, which occur within a week. The dinner was served in the Chambersburg school cafeteria. Other quests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis and Bob, Mr. and Mrs. Beale Ham, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Haggard and Janet Lee, Mrs. Irene Downey, Miss Mae Wade and Chel Young, unit 11 superintendent.

L. A. PLOTS LONG HAUL FOR WATER—Los Angeles is planning a water delivery system that may become the top engineering marvel of the nation. It is the Feather River project, which would include the nation's largest dam, near Oroville and an 800-mile aqueduct, as seen on map above. The dam would be 20 feet higher than Hoover Dam and require 14,000,000 cubic yards of cement to build. One monumental task of the aqueduct would be to lift the water 3400 feet over the Tehachapi Mountains or build a 26-mile tunnel. Estimated cost would be more than a billion and a half dollars. Los Angeles is a novice in the long-haul water business. In the years 1907 to 1913, it built the Owens River aqueduct and extended it in the 1930's. Later it was prime mover in the 400-mile Colorado River Aqueduct.

Chel Young, unit 11 superintendent, reports that the school has received a communication from WLDS that they will give the same service as last year regarding notices concerning the closing of schools because of weather conditions, epidemics, failure of heating plants and so on.

The superintendent's office is planning to notify WLDS should it be advisable for buses not to travel or the schools to be closed spending the Thanksgiving holiday for any reason. Such announcement will go on the air about 7:30 a.m. and continue until about 9:00 a.m.

If conditions occur which make it impossible for the buses to run, there will be no school until three days have passed. If these conditions should occur for more than three days, school will be in session for those who are able to attend, even though the buses cannot run.

Giant Crowd Greets Santa Claus

Several thousand people, oldsters and young ones, gave Santa Claus, the robust and smiling gentleman from the North Pole, a real reception Friday afternoon.

This photograph shows part of the crowd present in Central Park as Santa pulled up his reindeers and went to his house to find out what well-behaved children of this area desire for Christmas. He'll be at the park regularly from now on.

Men Who Go Down To Sea For Oil Are Mixture Of Sailor, Roughneck

GRAND ISLE, La. — The men drillers nonchalantly step aboard who go down to the seas for tide-a helicopter don a Mae West. Lands oil are a rugged mixture of trap themselves in, and head for sailors, soldier of fortune, oil field work as calmly as a brokerage roughneck and futuristic business-clerk reaching for a subway strap man.

Like sailors, they learn to balance their brawn with the roll and of Gulf of Mexico water, 111 pitch of the quarterdeck, to comb miles off Grand Island on the up and shimmery down everything Louisiana coast some 140 miles from a double-deck bunk to Coast south of New Orleans. Guard rescue hook, and to navigate without crackup the psychological journey from tedium to apathy board an anchored down craft that goes nowhere.

Like soldiers of fortune, theirs is an adventurous life, with the risk and pay high.

As oil field roughnecks, they get to know the lingering loneliness of constant comradeship, the thrills the now comes often of bringing in a producer, the disappointment of hitting a dry hole. And like the businessman of tomorrow, these Today Red makes $3.72 an hour, plus overtime at time and a half.

As a member of the drilling crew, he works five days on and two off.

Red lives 90 miles away in Thibodaux and comes to Grand Isle each Monday in a car pool with neighboring employees. The men check into the hotel to weigh themselves and their baggage, making sure the helicopter does not carry more than the company weight limit, which is considerably less than that allowed by the CAA.

Up to a few months ago, crews were taken to work by shrimp trawler, but the portal-to-portal way was high-some wells took five hours to reach-and numerous accidents resulted in climbing the quarterboat in high seas. Also, sea sickness was a major problem. Many men were unable to work after being taken out to the well.

"They'll never get me up in one of those things," resolved a grisly old veteran when the gradual shift-over to helicopters was announced.

A few weeks later he was seen alighting from the 'copter on the 50-foot square landing deck of a rig.

"I wasn't worried about the ride," he explained, "but I won't sleep tonight thinking of all that overtime I lost."

The flight to rig 46 takes about eight minutes. By boat, it took an hour and a half. The men sleep two in a room in neat, air-conditioned cabins that once housed the ship's officers. Cabin boys take care of the housekeeping and the linen and see to it that the crew has clean work clothes every day.

Food on an offshore rig justifies its high reputation. The galley staff is the largest individual crew aboard and headed by an experienced chef.

A typical meal might consist of fried chicken or roast beef, a choice of five vegetables, a salad, an assortment of pickles and olives, corn bread, milk, tea or coffee, ice cream and cake. For breakfast, the roughnecks place their orders with the cook and can get anything from flapjacks to pork chops.

The work is rough, dirty, heavy, dangerous and continues around the clock. Drill bits must be changed about every four to eight hours in a normal operation. Rig

46 is drilling at 7,183 feet, which means more than a mile of pipe must be lifted out of the hole by an elevator capable of lifting a half million pounds, then taken apart section by section within the 136-foot tower until the end is reached, the bit changed and the pipe reassembled and dropped back into the hole.

Practically every piece of equipment is capable of maiming if not handled carefully and expertly.

Horsing around on the platform is grounds for dismissal.

In off-duty hours, the men read, write letters, watch television, play cards, swap stories and fish.

At night, when the moon rises over the rig and the spade fish crowd about the hull waiting for the garbage to be dumped over.

The Gulf comes alive with the lights of drilling platforms, which are scattered through the darkness

like a convoy of aircraft carriers poised for an attack.

Then it is that the roughneck gets an idea of the immensity of Louisiana's offshore operations and perhaps of the part he plays in it.

NEW SHOES

Remember when practically all new shoes squeaked? To youngsters it had the distinct advantage of calling your friend's attention to your new footwear. But to adults it proved embarrassing, especially when you were late to meeting and your shoes squeaked every step of the way down the center aisle. Remember?

Our outstanding facilities coupled with our years of experience assure genuine satisfaction to those we serve in their time of sorrow.

CAR'S ARE MY LINE

by: E. W. Brown

It's mighty annoying sitting there on a winter morning, grinding away on the starter. You know your battery is in good shape and you've had the electrical system checked for loose connections and big enough cables (something I pointed out here a little while ago).

Your battery is in good shape—but it soon won't be with much more of this kind of starting.

So let's see what happens when you're grinding away on a winter morning. The battery is less efficient in the first place, and the oil puts an extra load on the starting system.

The valve stems may get sticky and not close properly. As a result, compression is lost. And the compressing of gas and air into a tight space within the cylinder does the vital job of heating the mixture up an extra 400 or 500 degrees. At that heat, you don't need much spark to set it off.

Even with compression lost, the mixture may ignite, and then you find it hasn't enough power to keep the engine turning over.

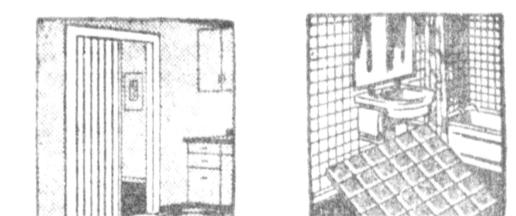

Two things need to be done. It's here that the importance of using the right weight of oil comes in. Come around to see us—before trouble sets in if you can—and we'll troubleshoot for winter starting headaches and put in the right grade of oil.

Secondly, this is the time of year when it's sometimes a good idea to put in some top cylinder oil through the spark plug holes or intake manifold to free those sticky valve stems. We'll do it for you, man.

WRIGGLE ROUTINE—Two tiger snakes and a boa constrictor have hit the night-club circuit in West Berlin, Germany. They're the partners of Tenga Kalu of Venezuela, who doesn't seem to mind them hanging around him during his unique dance routine.
